'THREE WEEKS' PACKS THE POPULAR CASPER RECITAL

TONIGHT, BISHOP HALL, PUNAHOU

"Three Weeks" packed the Popular theater to the doors Saturday night and the five-part picture play held the audience in wrapt attention from beginning to end. The drama is sensational in its action and magnificent in its setting, while Miss Madeline Travers, the beautiful and finished American actress, as the temperamental queen and Mahlon Hamilton, as Paul, her "soul-mate," did their respective parts splendidly and developed everything there is in the book of the story.

"Three Weeks" has been the most discussed novel of the last decade. Its beauty has been critically conceded and its drama admitted by the most conservative. In the pictures the wonderful strength of the book has been intensified to such an extent that many persons who have seen the photo-play running at the Popular declare that although they had read the novel enthusiastically, they never understood its full meaning until they saw the pictures.

Miss Travers wears beautiful gowns, all of which were designed especially for the photo-play by Lady Duff-Gordon, who is a sister of Elinor Glyn, the author of "Three Weeks." The famous modiste is a clever originator of fashions for women and her gowns are always extreme. Lady Duff Gordon studied the character of the temperamental queen with great care before she began work on Miss Travers's gowns, with the result that the actress throughout the play appears in costumes that are fascinating in design, rich in fabric and exactly what Miss Travers needs to make her role the absorbing character it is.

"Three Weeks" still has several days to run at the Popular and there will be two performances daily—matinee and night. Manager Fredhoff said today that the reservations at the box office for future performances were growing larger as the engagement continues.

'CARMEN' GOOD; 'MARTHA' TONIGHT

"Carmen," given by the Bevan Grand Opera Company in the Bijou theater Saturday night, proved its well-earned reputation of being the most popular of all grand operas for an American audience. Signor Gioacchini as Escamillo made the hit of the evening, he being encored three times in the song of the toreador.

Signor Sacchetti as Don Jose and Madame Vergeri as Carmen sustained the tense feeling of the opera up to the last when the curtain fell upon the death scene of Carmen, the gypsy lover. Madame Sanborne was a true Micaela, expressing in song and acting the peasant girl in love with the soldier.

All the artists received flowers from the delighted audience, which was the largest since the company opened its run in Honolulu.

Tonight's performance will be "Martha." The "Barber of Seville" will be the program from Tuesday night and "Carmen" will be repeated Wednesday night. A grand opera concert will be the musical treat offered Thursday night for which Honolulu music lovers may make suggestions. The program has not been made out. Any suggestions addressed to the Grand Opera Company, Bijou theater, will receive consideration as the company is desirous to please as many people as possible.

The closing week will be the banner week of the company's engagement. The individual artists will have an opportunity to show their friends their abilities as real singers.

GRIPPING BILL FOR YE LIBERTY PATRONS TONIGHT

Laura Sawyer, the sterling photo-play actress who caused such a sensation upon her previous appearance at Ye Liberty theater in the great crook plays "Chelsea 750" and "An Hour Before Dawn," returns to that popular-priced silent drama headquarters tonight in a new Dwyer art offering, "One of Millions."

"One of Millions" is one of the best of the hundreds of photo-plays that have had their inception in the great European war. It is one of the few pictures that have been evolved out of this conflict that has proved an artistic success. Laura Sawyer, to some extent, is responsible for this fact. Also, the story told in the pictures is worth while.

The "Exploits of Elaine," the great Reeves-Craig Kennedy serial, featuring Pearl White, has its premier at this theater with this evening's performance. Craig Kennedy, the scientific detective, has become famous through his exploitation in popular magazines. These stories are largely drawn upon for the Elaine serial. A Pathe Weekly concludes the bill.

SHAFTER PLANS 'AMATEUR NIGHT'

"Amateur Night" at Fort Shafter, Wednesday night, marks the beginning of a series of 2nd Infantry performances which promise to be highly entertaining to the boys of the service and to their friends in Honolulu who appreciate the class of shows put on by army talent. The Aerodome has a new platform to accommodate the large number of performers the show has called out. Corp. Leigh of the 2nd Infantry band will have charge.

Company D will be represented by "The Rival Darkies." The Hospital Corps has an unannounced number. Company K will send its quintet. Company F will send Bob Marshall, the contortionist, and from Company A will come Pete Connel, the fantastic dancer. Many individual stunts are being worked up by the army boys.

TONIGHT'S BAND PROGRAM

Under the leadership of Peter Kalani, acting bandmaster, the Royal Hawaiian band will give a public concert at Emma square tonight, beginning at 7:30 o'clock. The program for the night is as follows:
 March—1915 Congressional Party (new)
 Overture—Flotte Bursche
 Songs (by the Hawaiian Band Glee Club)
 Selection—Creme de la Creme
 Vocal—Hawaiian Songs ar. by Berger
 Hawaiian Patrol—Kilauea
 Waltz—Laura
 March—Laura
 March—Mayor Lane
 Hawaii Pono
 Star-Spangled Banner.

The Strangers' Friend Society will hold a special meeting at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning in the rooms of the Associated Charities, Alakea street.

F-4 BENEFIT TO BE PRODUCED BY SAILORMEN HERE

Cruiser Maryland and Tender Alert to Have Vaudeville Next Friday Night

"Salome," after a strenuous career of many years in every land, will appear in Honolulu in disguise at the opera house on the night of May 14. The event will be the F-4 benefit vaudeville show to be put on by the boys of the cruiser Maryland and the tender Alert. Ensign O'Brien will dance the "Salome" in typical costume just as the celebrated dance is taught in the naval academy at Annapolis.

Other features of the evening will be many, including a club-swinging act by Sgt. Roseman. Roseman is a professional club artist, having contracts with the Orpheum and Keith circuits on the mainland, to be filled when his enlistment expires. The navy boys also have several stunts which are being worked up as a surprise to the boys in the service as well as to the Honoluluans. The entire proceeds will go to the families of the F-4 victims.

PORTUGUESE TO HOLD BIG FETE

Nowhere can one see more vivid fetes than those of polyglot Honolulu. Honolulu certainly offers a great variety in the ways in which the many national city entertains. But the Portuguese colony is so thoroughly a part of the community that it is with something of a pleasant surprise one hears of the approaching Portuguese market to be held by the ladies of the Portuguese Protestant church at the lawn of Central Union church next Friday afternoon from 2 until 7. There is no plan to present an elaborate scene, but a genre sketch rather, a bit from a provincial market, with its booths of characteristic wares, not forgetting the special dishes and sweet breads for which Portugal is famous among lovers of good eating.

The gay music, the spirited national songs, quaint peasant costumes, the cloths of handsome Madeira embroideries, the delectable foods on sale and also served on the grounds will make a pleasant change from the usual garden party and should help along the energetic church women in their plans to secure additional room for the rapidly growing Sunday school and social life of their congregation.
